

Become an extra in the movie "A place to be"

ABOUT THE MOVIE

We're looking for extras - this Saturday, Monday and Tuesday - to appear in the short film A Place to Be, directed by Nadia Masri, starring Jules Werner and others, and based on the script that won this year's Crème Fraîche screenwriting competition at the Luxembourg Film Festival.

It's a film about the alienation felt by young internationals growing up in a country they don't have any real connection with, and by older Luxembourgers who've experienced, over their lifetimes, this huge foreign influx into their country.

We're looking for teenagers to play high schools students, working-age people to play Kirchberg office workers, and people of any age to play customers in a bar and passers-by in the street.

The budget of the film is sadly not big enough for us to be able to pay extras, but their names will appear in the end credits, and we will invite them to a specially organised screening around the time of the premiere in March. And we hope it'll be an interesting experience for them. We'll certainly be very grateful.
